YOUR SCORE: 82/100 -- Grade B (Good)

Category	Score	Weight	What it means in one line
Speed	50/100	25	Homepage answers in 853ms and ships 559KB of HTML -- fine on desktop, heavy on phones.
Mobile	100/100	20	Viewport set, tap-to-call numbers everywhere.
SEO basics	88/100	20	Strong foundation: schema, sitemap, consistent listings. Title runs 4 chars long.
Contact path	83/100	15	Phone in the header, 2-step quote flow -- but no form on the homepage itself.
Reviews	100/100	10	4.8* across 64 reviews; testimonials on the site.
Trust signals	92/100	10	License numbers in the footer match the BBB record; guarantees stated.

In plain English: This is a solid site with real trust behind it -- licensed, reviewed, and easy to call. The leaks are speed and friction: the homepage is slow to answer and heavy to load, and a caller on their phone has to hunt two clicks deep to find the quote form. Those are fixable in an afternoon, and they're the difference between a B and an A.

THE 3 THINGS COSTING YOU THE MOST

- [MAJOR] Slow first answer + heavy homepage -- measured 853ms time-to-first-byte and 559KB of HTML on 2026-10-07. Mobile callers on LTE feel every millisecond; a sub-600ms answer is the bar.
- [MAJOR] No quote form on the homepage -- the only quote path is the /complimentary-estimate/ page, two clicks from the homepage. Every extra click loses a slice of callers.
- [MAJOR] No response-time promise anywhere -- the site offers "emergency services" but never says how fast you'll respond. A caller choosing between you and a competitor picks the one who promises "we call back within the hour."

FULL FINDINGS (ranked by revenue impact)

1. Homepage is slow to answer and heavy to load -- MAJOR

- Measured: 853ms time-to-first-byte (GET, 2026-10-07); 559KB HTML; 3 render-blocking stylesheets; 30 of 32 images couldn't be size-checked (lazy-loaded, unmeasurable from outside).
- Why it costs you: Most of your callers are on phones. An 853ms server answer plus a half-megabyte of HTML means the page feels sluggish before your number even appears.
- Fix: Enable server caching/CDN, defer the 3 blocking stylesheets, compress and lazy-load below-fold images.
- Effort: Needs a developer, ~2-4 hours.

2. Quote form is two clicks deep, not on the homepage -- MAJOR

- Measured: Zero `<form>` elements on the homepage HTML (2026-10-07). The quote form lives at /complimentary-estimate/, reachable in 2 steps from the homepage nav.
- Why it costs you: A caller who lands on the homepage and doesn't want to call has to go find the form. Some won't bother.
- Fix: Embed the existing quote form (or a 3-field version: name, phone, address) directly in the homepage hero.
- Effort: DIY-able in most page builders, ~1 hour.

3. No response-time promise -- MAJOR

- Measured: Full homepage copy review (2026-10-07): "emergency services" is mentioned, but no statement like "we respond within X hours" or "same-day response" exists.
- Why it costs you: Emergency roofing is a speed decision. Stating a response promise converts panicked callers who are comparing tabs.
- Fix: Add one line near the phone number: "Emergency? We respond within 60 minutes, 8AM-6PM daily." (Only promise what you can keep.)
- Effort: 10 minutes.

4. Title tag runs 64 characters -- MINOR

- Measured: `<title>` = "Roof Replacement, Repairs & Siding in Joliet | Great Roofing LLC", 64 chars (2026-10-07). Google typically shows ~60.
- Why it costs you: The tail of the title can truncate in search results.
- Fix: Trim to <=60 chars, e.g. "Roof Replacement & Repairs in Joliet | Great Roofing LLC".
- Effort: 5 minutes.

5. About page names a person, photo unverified -- MINOR

- Measured: About page references "John" (2026-10-07); no owner photo could be confirmed from the homepage markup.
- Why it costs you: A face next to the name is the cheapest trust-builder on a contractor site.
- Fix: Add a real photo of John (or the crew) to the About page.
- Effort: 15 minutes.

What passed: Mobile setup is perfect (viewport + tap-to-call). SEO fundamentals are strong -- exactly one H1, LocalBusiness schema, sitemap + robots, and name/address/phone match across the site, BBB, and directory listings. Reviews are excellent (4.8*/64) and displayed on-site. License numbers in the footer match the BBB record. Zero broken links found on the homepage's 8 internal links. Guarantees and warranties are stated explicitly.

Not measured: LCP, CLS, and Total Blocking Time (need a browser render -- excluded, not estimated). Tap-target sizes, mobile-menu taps, and form usability on a real phone render (same reason). Review recency and owner review responses (not verifiable from public snippets). Origin TLS certificate details (verifiable on a direct connection; the sandbox routes through a proxy -- the site serves HTTPS with no mixed content).

WHAT HAPPENS NEXT
